

Jaclyn Hawse joined the Battleship Missouri Memorial in March 2011. In her role as Director of Communications & Business Development, Hawse has conceptualized, developed and implemented community outreach and communications programs for the Battleship Missouri Memorial which include, promotional campaigns, social media and digital marketing initiatives. In addition, she manages all publicity and collaboration efforts with various film production companies.

Prior to joining the Battleship Missouri Memorial, Hawse managed and oversaw marketing and public relations efforts for corporate clients at Becker Communications. Hawse's previous professional experiences include serving as president of the American Marketing Association – Hawaii Chapter.

Hawse graduated from the Old Dominion University with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration majoring in marketing with a minor in communications.