

Maribell Pabalan is an Account Executive at Anthology Marketing Group. Her first formal day on the job in public affairs coincidentally began when Donald J. Trump was elected to office in 2016.

Maribell's repertoire of expertise encompasses a decade in marketing, community outreach, event planning and public relations. She is a resourceful individual motivated by a need to foster creative, meaningful and cost-effective solutions for a client's most pressing communications needs.

Prior to Anthology, Maribell has served at the American Diabetes Association of Hawaii, and as an operations manager at AdWalls, an out-of-home media company.

In her spare time Maribell can be found enjoying family time and living her best urban farmer life through hydroponics.
