

Mondy Jamshidi Kent, a business leader in service to a healthy, resilient Hawaii, economic development and the arts with a 20-year career in social ventures, Jamshidi Kent has a demonstrated history of working cross-sector in organizational development and management.

Skilled in nonprofit communications, leadership and event production, she often assists organizations with fundraising, education, management, strategic and executive duties. Jamshidi Kent specializes in capacity building, sustainability and innovation and has served on the PRSA Board previously as Programs Chair and Koa Anvils Co-Chair.

Jamshidi Kent has over a decade of experience in program facilitation having directed and founded a Hawaii chapter of a youth peace and global issues organization in 2011. Having served as the statewide director for a large national nonprofit, she also serves on the executive board of a sustainable voluntourism nonprofit in Hawaii and the Pacific region.

She received her Master's Degree in Global Leadership and Sustainable Development from Hawaii Pacific University with a double-focus on applied energy efficiency and 21st-century learning for children in schools. In her spare time she serves in a place-based community development program focused on business development and indigenous design. She resides in Honolulu with her husband, Matt, and new kitten, Keanu.
